Purpose for the measure. According to the author, the UC Regents are required, pursuant to AB 2836 (Gloria) of 2018, to establish a systemwide NAGPRA Implementation and Oversight Committee. The author contends that, “Adding an additional member from a California Native American tribe to the UC NAGPRA Implementation and Oversight Committee will alleviate concerns related to repatriation delays”.

Background on federal and Cal NAGPRA. The federal NAGPRA was enacted on November 16, 1990, to address the rights of lineal descendants, Indian tribes, and Native Hawaiian organizations to certain Native American human remains, funerary objects, sacred objects, and objects of cultural patrimony. In 1990, the Congressional Budget Office estimated that NAGPRA would apply to the remains of between 100,000 and 200,000 individuals in museum and Federal agency collections. In the last 15 years, museums and Federal agencies have announced their willingness to repatriate the remains of 31,093 individuals. Another 111,000 human remains were listed as “culturally unidentifiable”.

The federal NAGPRA assigned several implementation responsibilities to the Secretary of the Interior, including:

- 1) Promulgating implementing regulations;
- 2) Establishing and providing staff support to the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Review Committee;
- 3) Making grants to assist museums, Indian tribes, and Native Hawaiian organizations in fulfilling their responsibilities under the Act;
- 4) Extending inventory deadlines for museums that demonstrate a good faith effort;
- 5) Publishing notices for museums and Federal agencies in the Federal Register;
- 6) Assessing civil penalties on museums that fail to comply with provisions of the Act; and,
- 7) Responding to notices of inadvertent discoveries of Native American cultural items on Department of the Interior lands.

The Cal NAGPRA, enacted in 2001, created a process whereby California Native Tribes could seek to repatriate human remains and objects from their cultural heritage from museums and custodial institutions. Additionally, Cal NAGPRA established a ten-member appointed Repatriation Commission with authority to order repatriation, to mediate disputes, to subpoena, and to impose civil penalties. Further, Cal NAGPRA required any agency or museum that has possession or control over collections of California Native American human remains and associated funerary object to complete, by January 1, 2003, an inventory of all items and include specified information in the inventory that will facilitate return of the objects.

Current UC Policy and Procedures on Curation and Repatriation of Human Remains and Cultural Items. The UC established its Policy and Procedures on Curation and Repatriation of Human Remains and Cultural Items, found here:

https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/2500489/HumanCulturalRemains in May 2011.

The general principles of the UC's policy apply to all human remains in the UC's collections. The policy also pertains specifically to Native American and Native Hawaiian human remains and Cultural Items (defined per NAGPRA). The policy is intended to ensure the UC complies with NAGPRA.

Additionally, the intent of the policy is to assure the respectful and dignified treatment of human remains and the consideration of living descendants of those deceased. The UC policy recognizes that individuals and communities have cultural and religious concerns that must be considered in determining the treatment and disposition of human remains in its collections.

Prior legislation. AB 2836 (Gloria), Chapter 823, Statutes of 2018, in part, required the UC Regents to establish and support a systemwide UC NAGPRA Implementation and Oversight Committee, and for any campus subject to the federal NAGPRA, to establish a campus implementation committee.

AB 978 (Steinberg), Chapter 818, Statutes of 2001, in part, enacted the California NAGPRA of 2001 to establish a process for repatriating Native American human remains and cultural items that are currently in the possession of any state or local agency or any museum that receives state funds.
