COMMENTS: Need for this bill. According to the author, “In the fifth largest economy in the world, college students should not go hungry. The Restaurant Meals Program (RMP) is a proven, efficient way to prevent hunger and smooth students’ path to graduation.”

Background. Last year, AB 1894 (Weber) allowed CDSS to enter into an MOU with the Chancellor of the CSU to enable qualifying food facilities to participate in the RMP, even if the CSU campus is not located in a county that operates the RMP. According to CDSS, to date, the department has not entered into a MOU with a CSU pursuant to the provisions of AB 1894. The provisions of this bill would further the efforts of AB 1894 by including the Chancellor of the CCC among the entities with whom CDSS may enter into an MOU for purposes of increasing access to the RMP and preventing hunger among college students who are experiencing homelessness, have a disability, or are elderly.

Restaurant Meals Program. Federal rules related to SNAP, and therefore CalFresh, prohibit the purchase of certain items, such as alcohol, vitamins and medicines, pet foods, food that will be eaten in the store, and hot foods. However, RMP allows certain eligible homeless and elderly CalFresh recipients and CalFresh recipients with disabilities to purchase hot and prepared foods from participating restaurants that would otherwise be prohibited. This is due to the unique challenges faced by these populations as it relates to their ability to prepare food, and a potential lack of access to necessary equipment. Currently, 10 California counties participate in the RMP: Alameda, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, Santa Clara, and Santa Cruz. In 2018, AB 1894 (Weber), Chapter 746, Statutes of 2018, allowed CDSS to enter into an MOU with the Chancellor of the CSU to allow certain restaurants on the campus to participate in the RMP, even if the CSU is located in a county that does not participate in the RMP, in order to increase food access on college campuses.

Federal law requires each restaurant to sign an MOU and complete a federal certification process, which requires a restaurant to:

- 1) Be willing to welcome all those eligible for the RMP, meaning a restaurant cannot serve elderly CalFresh recipients and refuse to also serve CalFresh recipients who are experiencing homelessness or have a disability;
- 2) Offer a low-cost menu for program participants and agree to SNAP rules prohibiting the charge of a sales tax, meal tax, or gratuities on prepared foods purchased with EBT; and,
- 3) Agree to post signage stating: EBT or California Advantage Cards Accepted Here.

Food insecurity among college students. A report was released in March of 2019 by the Hope Center for College, Community, and Justice, in collaboration with the CCC Chancellor's Office and The Institute for College Access and Success, titled the California Community Colleges #RealCollege Survey. This survey included nearly 40,000 students at 57 community colleges, and found that 50% of respondents were food insecure in the prior 30 days. Over half of survey respondents worried about running out of food or could not afford to eat balanced meals. Forty-one percent of respondents reported that they skipped meals or cut the size of their meals for financial reasons, and 12% of respondents reported not eating for at least one whole day during the prior month because they didn't have enough money.

The Study of Student Basic Needs, released by the CSU Office of the Chancellor in January 2018, identified and examined a number of barriers faced by students working to achieve postsecondary educational goals, which include housing and food insecurity. According to the study, 41.6% of CSU students reported food insecurity, and of those, 20% experienced low food security, while 21.6% experienced very low food security. Black/African-American students and first-generation attendees experienced the highest rates of food insecurity (65.9%) and homelessness (18%). Students who reported experiencing homelessness, food insecurity, or both, also experienced mental health and physical consequences which correlated with lower academic achievement.

CalFresh. SNAP provides food access to low-income individuals who meet certain eligibility criteria; in California, this program is known as CalFresh. CalFresh benefits are entirely federally funded, and administration at the federal level lies with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). The USDA is tasked with setting specific eligibility requirements for SNAP programs across the country, as well as a gross and net income tests, work requirements, and other documentation requirements. Currently, the maximum allowable gross income is 200% of the Federal Poverty Level (FPL), although households with elderly members or members with disabilities are not subject to gross income criteria, but must have a net monthly income at or below 100% of the FPL. In California, CalFresh is administered at the local level by county human services agencies, with federal, state, and county governments sharing the costs of program administration. Nearly 4 million individuals in California receive CalFresh benefits.

Double referral. AB 612 was on April 9, 2019 in the Assembly Human Services Committee, where it passed on consent with unanimous support.

Prior legislation. AB 942 (Weber, 2019) would require CDSS to establish a statewide RMP. AB 942 is currently awaiting hearing in the Assembly Appropriations Committee.

AB 1894 (Weber), Chapter 746, Statutes of 2018, allowed CDSS to enter into an MOU with the Chancellor of the CSU in order to allow any qualifying food facility located on a CSU campus to participate in the RMP, even if the CSU campus is located in a county that does not participate in the RMP.

AB 282 (Wiener), Chapter 355, Statutes of 2017, required CDSS to communicate with counties regarding how to participate in the RMP, among other things.

AB 214 (Weber), Chapter 134, Statutes of 2017, required the California Student Aid Commission to notify Cal Grant recipients who qualify for participation in the CalFresh program, provided clarity to existing policies in order to simplify CalFresh administration for college students, and required CDSS to maintain a list of programs that provide a student potential eligibility for a CalFresh exemption if certain requirements are met.

AB 1747 (Weber), Chapter 290, Statutes of 2016, addressed growing hunger among low-income college students in California by providing the state with several new tools to draw down federal resources. AB 1747 also improved coordination between anti-hunger efforts on college campuses and anti-hunger efforts in the surrounding communities.

AB 1930 (Skinner), Chapter 729, Statutes of 2014, created a workgroup under CDSS which sought to ensure students who actively participate in the education plans and meet all other eligibility requirements for CalFresh are adequately screened for exemptions from federal work requirements for SNAP benefits.
